CONKLING'S COUNCIL.

THE NEW YORK REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Senator Conkling Temporary Chairman---His Speech---States Rights and Inflation.

SARATOGA, September 3.-The Rapublican State Convention met in the own hall. There is a large attendance of spectators present, every seat being occupied and many persons unable to gain admission. A. B. Cornell as Chairman of the State Committee called the Convention to order. It was moved that Senator Conkling be elected temporary chairman, which was adopted unanimously, and taking the chair, he was greeted with applause. He thanked the convention heartily for selecting him as temporary chairman, and more still for the warm and cordial greeting. He congratulated the members on the auspicious promise for the party and republic. Threatening dangers now appear in public affairs. "First, the pretension of State rights;" second, inflation. and third, the disposition to trample on the liberties of a part of the people. He referred to the resumption of specie payments and said our finances, let alone, will be safer and better than they have been for many years. Abundant crops have been gathered and this abundance will bring prosperity. And the Senator proceeded to Following reamption has already come renewed business prosperity, and all that is wanted is to keep off the hands of scheming men and non-interference with business by legislation, and all will be well. Republican ascendancy means resumption and maintenance of prosperity, and Republican ascendency would be sure and easy if all the votes of the country could be freely cast and fairly counted. But this unfortunately could not be, because in part of the country the vote was not free. Pretensions of State rights, the heresy of State rights again once more raises its head. It declares that there shall be no free elections, there shall be no fair count.

The jury aws, which have stood for more than eighty years, were prostrated and the jury box prostituted. This was in order to give license to unlawfulness on election day, and every day. The army was manacled, not only on all days, but on the very day when it should be most ready to act in support of National liberty. This was all for the purpose of strangling elections in behalf of a brutal candidate.

Four Southern States, Mr. Conkling said, were certainly Republican, and two others would be on the same side if the votes could be recorded. But he thought there would be no election there worth the name, and New York would decide the contest of 1880. After the appointment of the various ommittees the convention adjourned

Mr. Wheeler, on being conducted to the chair, made a speech which was a general and forcible arraignment of the Democratic policy and record, both uring and since the war of rebellion. ### James H. Gatling Murdered.

Special Dispatch to the News. MURFREESBORO, N. C., Sept. 3. James H. Gatling, a farmer residing near this place, and brother of the inventor of the Gatling gun, was found dead near his hog pen, pierced by three bullets. He was in prosperous circumstances and was highly respected. No ciue as yet to the murderer.

LATER.

The citizens of Northampton county. orth Carolina, in the neighborhood of ewsom's and Boykin's Depots, on the line of the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad, were much excited yesterday over the news of the murder of Mr Henry Gatling, a wealthy and prominent citizen of the county, and a brother of the widely known inventor of the Gatling gun. Mr. Gatling was a batchelor, and about fifty-five years old, and lived about five miles from Newsom's, irginia, and about the same distance from Boykin's, North Carolina, Norhampton county. His dead body was found yesterday morning, lying along side of a pig-pen on his premises, with two bullet holes in his head and one in his back. His remains, when found in the morning, were cold and stiff. It is not known whether he was murdered late Monday night or very early yesterday morning. As he was very highly esteemed and had no enemies, and was quite rich, it is supposed that he was shot by parties for the purpose of obbery. His clothes were rifled, but nothing was injured at his house. A jury of inquest was held yesterday, and elicited the facts as above stated. Our informant did not hear that anyone had been suspected of the murder. The authorities of the county were going to work energetically yesterday take measures to ferret out the asssins. Such a cold-blooded and myserious murder has never before taken place in Northampton county, and the eople are determined to aid the offiers of the law in seeking out and arresting the criminals.

London Monthly Cotton Circular.

LONDON, September 3.—The leading monthly cotton circular says the extensive curtailment of the production has at length told upon the manufacturers' stocks. This has been specially the case as regards the goods suitable for India. The demand from the East has also increased and some fair contracts have been made for future delivery. lome trade, however, owing to the bad harvest prospects, has participated only in a small degree in the increase of business, and the manufacturers in this department are still burdened with things.

considerable stocks. During the recent depression the consumption was probably reduced to forty thousand bales and it may now be about forty-five thousand bales, but the recent advance in raw material will check the tendency to an increased consumption unless it is followed by a corresponding advance in Manchester, of which there are no indications at the present, scarcity of American is such. ### JAPAN'S PRESENT TO THE SHOW.

A Valuable Gift which the Directors will not Accept. Philadelphia Record, 2d.

A half dozen employes of the Permanent Exhibition were yesterday occu-pied in the educational department in to maintain and enforce the results achieved by the sword, and to secure unpacking a similar number of large protection to every citizen in every wooden cases covered over on the outside with Japanese hieroglyphics. The combined contents of the packages proved to be a complete model of the right, regardless of his color, condition educational system of that country. There were piles of books, boxes of drawings, a case of photographs, several mechanical appliances and a large assortment of articles too numerous to catalogue. One of the most conspicuous features was a goodly-sized and handsome model of a Japanese school building. The contents of these cases were a present from the Government of Japan to the Permanent Exhibition, and they had been collected under the personal supervision of the minister of education of that country. The display would form an attractive addition to the Exhibition's educational section, but on this point President Paxson has this to say: "The Japanese Government paid the whole expense of the transportation to the Exhibition doors, and have offered to foot all bills incurred in setting up the exhibit in position. This of itself would be a considerable item, but we are unable to accept it until we know what the Park Commission intend doing regarding the removal notice. We certainly will not go to the expense of securing cases and arranging the gift until we know rary or a permanent existence." The Condition of Memphis. Brooklyn Eagle. The Memphis Avalanche is the first paper in the plague-stricken city to boldly state a truth which the North has foreborne to emphasize, namely, that the city itself is largely to blame for the outbreak of yellow fever this year. It recognizes the promptitude and generosity of Christendom last year in responding to the cry for help, but it adds that Christendom had a right to expect that Memphis would put its house in order to prevent a recurrence of the epidemic. That she has not done so, it does not need the admission of this outspoken journal to pro-claim. The condition of some of the houses in which the plague broke out would have invited typhus fever on the salubrious mountain tops of the Sierra Nevada, and the municipal government representing the people were to blame for such a state of things. We cannot deny the neglect to take proper precautions, but can only make what charitable allowance we can for an unhappy people enfeebled by privation and poverty and urge them, even yet, to do what should have been done five years ago. An appeal to the North for help is still contemplated and we have little doubt that the response will be as prompt and liberal as ever. But if it is ate. ### ASSERTING CIVIL RIGHTS.

A COLORED PASTOR APPEALS TO THE LAW FOR PROTECTION.

William Howard Griffith Indignant

Because his Daughters and Himself Could Not Get Ice Cream.

New York Star, 3d.

Rev. William Howard Griffith, acolored pastor of Jersey City, has commenced an action against William Dohrman, the proprietor of an icecream saloon in that city, for refusing attendance upon himself and two daughters on Saturday evening last. The following version of the affair has been obtained from the principals themselves. Mr. Griffith, accompanied by his two daughters, who show but faint traces of their negro extraction, entered the saloon and asked a lady attendant if they could be served with ice-cream. She, not withing to assume the responsibility, referred the clergyman to the proprietor, who answered that they could not. Mr. Griffith then asked him upon what grounds he refused, and he was told upon that of color. Without replying or making any outward sign of indignation the party passed out the street. A few minutes reflection sufficed to convince the proprietor that he had made an invidious distinction, besides a grave mistake, and he hurried out after Mr. Griffith and requested him and his daughters to return, saying, you can have all the ice cream you want in my saloon, which offer to return was not acceded to by Mr. Griffith, who informed Dohrman that he intended to make use of all legal measures to have the insult resented and the social position of his race under the Civil Righ's bill definitely defined.

Mr. Dohrman sought another interview yesterday with the pastor, and proffered an apology for his action. Mr. Griffith, however, informed Dohrman that the matter had been intrusted to the care of his counsel, and he desired that the law in the premises should take its course.

A reporter for the Star called upon Rev. Mr. Griffith at his residence last evening, and found him a portly man, about 50 years of age, pouring over his books and deeply immersed in the concerns and welfare of the Zion African Methodist Episcopal Church, over which he has charge. Mr. Griffith conversed freely upon the subject of the action of Mr. Dohrman, and confessed that he felt keenly the insult and the unenviable position in which he had been placed. "Had I been alone," relooked the whole matter, and harbored only a feeling of pity for the offender. my two daughters, whom I am striving to educate to the extent of my means, were with me, and on their account I became doubly sensitive, and hope to have theirs and my own position established under the law.' Mr. Griffith himself is light in comolexion, while that of his daughters is lighter still. The pastor furnished the following brief biography of himself, "I am a native of the island of Barbadoes, and received my education in some of the most advanced English schools in that place. After passing the necessary examination, I was admitted to the ministry and appointed to fill a professorship in the negro college under the patronage of the English Government. My position threw me into intercourse with some of the influential men of the island, and in the year 1862 I was delegated to institute a church and college at British Guiana. I repaired there at the close of the year. and remained until 1876, performing the duties of missionary and minister. During the latter year I visited England, taking my family with me, and had remained in London but a short time when I received a call from the African Methodist Episcopal Church in Toronto, Canada. I had charge of the church there over two years, when I determined to become connected with the Conference in America, which I joined in May last in the city of New Haven. I shortly afterward received a call from my present charge, and on the 18th of the same month I arrived in Jersey City. I desire to state, that in all my travels, which include the principal cities in three-quarters of the globe, last Saturday night was the first and only time I have ever had a distinction made against me on account of my color.'

Northern Repudiators.

Philadelphia Record, 1st. It is hoped that the New York Tribune, which is publishing a series of elaborate articles on the repudiation of Southern State debts, will not cease its labors until a circumstantial account of Minnesota's act of bad faith is set forth. It can be said for the Southern people that they conceived themselves deprived of their property through the freeing of the slaves, and that this feel-ing had the effect of arousing a spirit of repudiation. Of course, it may be said, and truthfully, that the productive power of the South, with the negroes free, is equal to if not greater than during the slavery regime, and that therefore the plea had no foundation in reason; but this does not affect the truth of the statement as to how the Southern people were influenced in their feelings as to the sanctity of pub-lic debts by the results of the war. Again, it cannot be gainsaid that the war was terribly destructive in its general effects, nor that large portions of some Southern States' debts were of some Southern States debts and fraudulently contracted by the corrupt fraudulently contracted by the do not cite these facts in order to frame a detence for the repudiating Southern States, but rather to mark the contrast between the surrounding facts and those of Minnesota, whose voters deliberately repudiated an honest debt without any extenuating circumstances whatever. Regarding the action of Minnesota the United States Supreme Court has taken occasion to say: faith of the State of Minnessota solemnly pledged has not been kept; and were she amenable to the tribunals of the country, as private individuals are, no Court of Justice would withhold its judgment against her." In calling off the roll of repudiating States the *Trib-*une should not omit Minnesota from the indictment.

ASHEVILLE, Aug. 30.—The weather for the past week has been delightful though it is warm to-day. Trade the merchants report as tolerably good. The streets are crowded with produce Police news is not important, the only item being the turning out of the old marshal and installing a new.

Court adjourned last night at dark, after a sitting of three weeks, Judge Graves presiding. But little civil busness was transacted.

GUILFORD. GREENSBORO, September 2.—The weather has been much warmer for several days, and hot yesterday.

Last Thursday, while Darius Starbuck was in his field plowing, he fell dead, and was found so at his plow, the horse standing. He was a valuable citizen of the Quaker persuasion. Yesterday we buried the beloved wife of Mr. J. W. Scott (for years the leading wholesale grocery merchant of Greensboro). For three long years has that slow but sure disease, consumption, been preying upon her system, and finally gained the mastery over her weak body, which gave way on Saturday night; but the happy Christian soul took its flight and another household is made desolate. The Presbyterian church was crowded, in attestation of the love for her and sympathy for the young husband and child, Dr. Smith officiating, and that beautiful and appropriate music by the choir—oh! how thrilling.

General Hood's Children. Atlanta Constitution

General Hood was devoted to the cause of the South. He lost a leg in de-fense of Georgia's soil, and he fought desperately to save Atlanta. His children cannot look to the government for a pension, for the cause in which he fought was lost. But shall they suffer for this reason? Is there not manly gratitude enough in all the South to raise a fund that shall put these little ones above the reach of want? We hope so. Let Atlanta-let Georgia, take the lead in this noble movement. The Constitution will gladly acknowledge and forward any contribution that may be made. Georgia alone should give $10,000 to a fund for the children of a man the flower of whose life was given to her defense.

The patrons of perfames at all times have been the most polished people in the world, and in this age no refined lady or gentleman considers their toilet complete without the use of some delightful scent like Dr. Price's Unique Perfumes, which are really the gems of all odors.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE.

THE INAUGURATION OF THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Large Concourse Assembled at the College .-- Interesting and Inspiring Services.

Several coaches were attached to the regular Raleigh & Gaston mail train yesterday morning, all of which were erowded with those going down to attend the inauguration of President Pritchard and laying of the corner stone of the new building known as the Wingate Memorial Hall. The strangers and visitors were invited to visit the new society halls, and all were delighted with their beauty. The furniture of the two halls is entirely different but both evincing great taste and care in their arrangement. The Euzelian pleased the eye of your correspondent rather more than that of the Philomathesian, though it is difficult to decide between them. At halfpast ten o'clock the large company were assembled in the Chapel and the audience called to order by the new President, Dr. Pritchard, who said the services would be opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Skinner, who led the devotion of the vast audience in a prayer of great fervor and eloquence, praying that the mantle of the late presidents, and especially of the be-loved Dr. Wingate, might fall on the gifted president who was voted to be naugurated. We noticed on the platform His Excellency Governor Jarvis, Hon. A. S. Merrimon, Hon. Kemp P. Battle, General William R. Cox, Judge George V. Strong, Colonel L. L. Polk, Hon. John C. Scarborough, Hon. C. M. Cook, Colonel L. D. Stephenson, A. M. McPheeters, P. A. Dunn, Rev. Dr. T. E. Skinner, Rey. F. H. Ivey, Rev. A. C. Dixon, Rev. J. S. Mundy, R. D. Graham, Rev. John K. Faulkner, Rev. George W. Sanderlin, Dr. R. H. Lewis, George W. Thompson, W. H. Pace, Dr. T. L. Banks, Rev. T. C. Bailey, Dr. H. W. Montague, and the faculty of the college. Lether and the faculty of the college. In the audience we saw from your city Len. H. Adams, Henry Briggs, S. W. Whiting, A. D. Jenkins, W. H. Crawford, N. B. Broughton, J. D. Joyner and J.

Professor Charles E. Taylor then deivered the opening and welcoming address. It was a most chaste and appropriate address, welcoming in beau-tiful language the strangers present, the friends of the college, the Alumni, the Governor and the new students. Professor Taylor reflected credit on the faculty who he represented. He was followed in a short but eloquent address by Hon. C. M. Cook, introducing to the audience the new president, and announcing in the name of the trustees that Dr. T. H. Pritchard had been elected president of the col-lege. The address of Mr. Cook was to the point, clothed in beautiful language, saying that Wake Forest College had no jealousy of Davidson or Trinity College, but that there was room, and more than room for them all in our beloved State, and that he hoped the day was not distant when our University would be what its friends hoped it to be, when all our colleges would be feeders to it. In conclusion he introduced the new president. Dr. Pritchard came forward amid a storm of applause. He apologised for his coming speech, saying he had been so sick for the past two weeks he could neither think or compose such a speech as this important occasion demanded, but that while what he had to say might not "smell of the lamp," it would nevertheless be from the heart. He then announced as the subject to be discussed, "Higher Education," which he said embraced all education, and in a most powerful and eloquent address he urged the importance of education; that our beloved country would be happy and prosperous just in proportion as her people were educated, and sustained his utterances from welltimed and astounding statistics from this country and others. He, in eloquent language, urged the necessity of the education of our farmers, that the dignity of their calling, which was the noblest and the foundation of all so-

There is great power in figures, and he used with marked effect the school statistics of this State, which had been furnished by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, which when fully understood, must make every true North Carolinian blush. President Pritchard's address showed that he was taking up the great cause of education, and understood it from its very foundation, and that he has enlisted fully in the great work of teaching. At the conclusion of his speech he introduced Hon. Kemp P. Battle, president of the University, who delivered one of the most appropriate and happy speeches of his life. He said he was not there to praise himself, but to "magnify his office," and then set forth in a beautiful and forcible way the great importance of the teacher on whose work rested all our hopes socially, politically and religiously; and paying the new president a happy compliment and wishing him and his new work every success, he took his seat amid loud applause.

The president then introduced Governor Jarvis, who delivered a welltimed and appropriate address. He complimented in the highest terms the new president, and said he had known him for many years, and felt sure that the college, under his hand, would and must succeed; that he had the ability and work to accomplish anything he undertook, and that he congratulated the Baptist church and the cause of education in North Carolina on this auspicious day. He alluded to the humiliating statistics that president Pritchard had read, and urged that the Churches must take up this great cause of education and urge its claims from every pulpit in the State. He urged men of means to aid the young men of the land in getting money to do so with, and forcibly and beautifully illustrated this point by an incident in his own history. The Governor's address gave great satisfaction to the large audience. A recess was then taken until 3 o'clock, when the Chapel was again crowded. President Pritchard read letters from Rev. Dr. M. M. Marshall and Hon. Thomas S. Kenan, expressing regret that they could not accept the invitation to be present, and also delivered a message from Hon. D. G. Fowle, saying that he was engaged in an important law suit which prevented his attendance. He then introduced to the audience the Rev. A. C. Dixon, who announced as his subject "The Library of Wake Forest College." It will be in vain to attempt a report of this most ingenious and eloquent address, which seemed to electrify the audience. He illustrated by most beautiful instances in classic history as well as in our own history the importance of the Library. The Hon. A. S. Merrimon was then introduced and congratulated the College on the bright future that awaited it, and then announced as the sub-ject of his address, "Education," #### and with great ability discussed and forcibly urged its importance, and said he thought that all schools, from the lowest to the highest, should have as the foundation of all other studies the Bible, and gave most important hints as to the physical as well as the mental and moral education of both male and female.

General W. R. Cox, Judge Strong and Colonel L. L. Polk had all been announced for short speeches, but the hour was so late they requested to be excused. The audience then went out to the new building, which is now well under way, to witness the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the "Wingate Memorial Building." President Pritchard stated that there was a gentleman present who, forty-three years ago, witnessed the laying of the corner stone of the old building, and he would now address the audience. He then intro-duced Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Skinner. who delivered a short but most appropriate address, alluding in most affectionate terms to the lamented and beloved President Wingate; said that he could not yet realize that that good and lovely man was dead. He then said the mantle of the lost president had

The usual ceremonies were then gone through with, when the corner stone was declared laid. Reasons for Technical Education. Lord Beaconsfield recently delivered the prizes to the successful exhibitors at the Westminster Industrial Exhibition, and took the opportunity to make a speech in strong advocacy of techni-cal education and the development of the sphere and influence of the schools of design. Education in the useful arts, he said, was quite as necessary as in the fine arts, and he was in favor of es-tablishing schools to assist youth who show a predisposition toward technical art. "In the old days," he con-tinued, "when there were guilds and a system of apprenticeship, that want was supplied. Unquestionably guilds and systems of apprenticeship are not adapted to the manners of this age, but in allowing them to become obsolete, or in terminating them, society and the State have made a great mistake in not affording at the same time a substitute for them." Lord Beaconsfield remarked further that there was a very general and prevalent feeling in England that some effort should be made by which technical education should be secured and he noticed with pleasure that the great city companies (the successors and heirs of the London guilds) "have felt that they could not more wisely or more beneficially exercise a portion, a part of their considerable wealth than in cultivating that technical skill and securing that technical education which in fact is prominently connected with their origin and duty." His lordship added, with great good sense, that it is a great mistake to suppose, "if there are any who indu!ge in the idea, that principles which are applicable to the principles which are applicable to the fine arts are not—though they may not be in the same degree-applicable to arts of utility. The same appositeness is necessary, the same fitness and finish, and what is most important, both in the fine arts and in arts of design, is that the best material should be used. I feel, therefore, that if an institution like the present-I will treat it as an institution—is to be sustained and nourished, the attention of the working classes must be called to technical education; the greatest inducement must be given to them to complete that education, and to understand that in the best material and in the best work manship they alone can maintain that superiority which was once, and I hope will be again, the pride of this country." Beaconsfield, however, does not by any means propose to burden the State with the expenses of a regular and general system of technical education for all The system he will be content with, is a private one, patronized by the old corporations, and the instruction is no

Edwin Booth's Debut in Wilmington. Wilmington Review, 2d. We mentioned the fact, in our issue of yesterday, that it was in this city and in our old theater that Joseph Jefferson first won fame in his profession. We to-day chronicle an additional item in regard to another very distinguished actor, if not the most distinguished is not generally known that the eminent tragedian, Edwin Booth, also made his debut within the walls of "Old Drury," as it was then called, in the then town of Wilmington. His father, the then celebrated Junius Brutus Booth, though an erratic genius, had few equals in his palmy days, and when he was true to himself. He was filling an engagement here many years ago with Mr. Preston, the lessee of the theater, and a desire having been ex-pressed by his admirers to see him in is great personation of the powerfully drawn character of Pescara in the play of the Apostate, it was put upon the stage, and his son, Edwin, appeared as Hemeya. He was a mere lad at the time, knew nothing of stage business and doubtless had never read Shakespeare's advice to the players; certainly he had never studied it, for he ranted terribly. It was the effort of a boy and the audience not only overlooked his short-comings, but gave him generous applause throughout the performance. Those who were present on that occasion little dreamed of the brilliant future of the youthful debutent. It is certainly a little remarkable that the two most prominent actors in the country, and the most opposite in their profession, should each plume their flight to the zenith from this good old town of ours. Many of our play-goers well remember Preston. Poor fellow! his life was a failure and his end a tragedy. Like the renowned Mrs. Gummage, in Dicken's Story of David Copperfield, everything "went contrary" with him, until at last, broken in mind and body, he one day wandered to the river's bank, and the widening circles told those who sought him the sad fate of the poor actor.

Found---A Baby. Charlotte Observer, 3d.

Night before last a handsome twelve pound boy baby was left on the door step of one of the suburban residences of Charlotte, with no instructions. The door-bell was rung, and the member of the family who answered it discovered the little fellow carefully wrapped up, but could see no one else in sight. The little stranger was taken in and will be tenderly nursed and cared for.

A HICKORY HORSE.

A ROAD ENGINE ON THE STREETS OF HICKORY

And Away they Sped at the Rate of 2:40, on its way to Catawba Springs.

Hickory West Carolinian, 30th. On Thursday morning a flat was seen standing on the side track at our depot, with some kind of locomotive on it. The small boys and the curious generally gathered around it for examina-

About ten o'clock Mr. Morrison, to whose care the "critter" was shipped, assisted by Mr. Stubbs, of Lincolnton, began to make preparations for unloading the machine and setting it up to do business on its own account. The interest in it still increased, and by the time the preparations for rolling it off the car were completed, there was no lack of sufficient force to shove the great curiosity ashore. Everything ready all hands were invited to "push." But it didn't push. There seemed to be a common agreement among all that if the machine got on a fellow's toes they would not be worth much except for sausage, but a large rope being attached with which to "kinder" steady the concern, and a long-bearded lawyer and a lean editor to manage the rope, the thing was shoved off. Why the two mentioned above were called upon to do the hold-ing back, we can't determine, unless physical ability was measured by

LEGAL AND EDITORIAL ABILITY, coupled with the idea that such characters are like balky horses—pull better backward than forward. Be that as it may, they broke a very large rope in the effort, and if the holding back wasn't properly done, it was no fault

Safely landed, the next step was to get a supply of water and fire up. The critter was backed down to the public well near by, and a good supply of water furnished, the different parts of the machine were put to their places, fuel was brought and fire applied.

Soon the steam was heard and new interest was revived. The road engine was "going to run." Still the managers kept warming it up. Presently it was able to whistle, which it did with great credit to itself. Now the interest was overwhelming. The nurses

WHEELED OUT THE BABY CARRIAGES, and stationed themselves around to see the wonderful steamer roll off; the ladies crowded the balconies of the hotels to see it speed by; the salesmen at the stores dropped their calico and vardsticks: the accountants, who had done nothing but run up long columns for months, threw down their pencils and rushed to the scene; the eart boys seized the reins of their jaded teams, and called out "steady, Mike, whoa;" even our "big" merchants were on the ground eager to see the wonder. We noticed one of our grave M. Ds., with one hand resting against a tree and the other on his staff—whether he had a thought of using the tree as a means of safety, should the machine come his way, or, being low of stature, he had a thought of climbing to get a better view, we cannot say.

At last Mr. Morrison thought all things ready, and

BLEW HIS WHISTLE LOUD AND LONG. as much as to say "Clear the track, the locomotive is coming." The steam was turned on and away they sped at a 2:40 rate-that is at the rate of one mile in two days and forty hours. The eager crowd moved forward with the engine, all anxious to see it when it should get fully under way. The speed did not improve, however, and the procession moved on solemnly—a veritable funeral

One by one the crowd dropped out and each turned to his place of business, the ladies left the windows and balconies, the great show was over. Dr. Elliott's road engine was on its way to the Catawba Springs, but up to late yesterday eyening it had not reached there—being mired up in a mud-hole on the way. As to the success of the road engine we venture no prediction, but any fifteen year old ox, with cart and Jes Reed and family and all his household and kitchen furniture attached, could have outtimed it on this

There was a compositor not only discharged from the San Jose (Cal.) Herald the other day, but also fired down four flights of stairs by the infuriated foreman of that admirable journal. It seems that the typo was requested to "liven up" a certain speech delivered at the Workingmen's State Convention, held in that town, with the usual marks in parentheses. The "jour," who was carrying a little more beer than was necessary, just then got hold of the wrong proceedings, causing the eloquent resolution of Mr. Van Arman, referring to the death of a member to referring to the death of a member to read something like this: "Whereas, It pleased Divine Providence to remove from our midst our beloved comrade Azariah McMuck [loud applause], who has been cut off in the flower of his usefulness [laughter] and promise; it is Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved family [cheers] and friends our sincere sympathy in their hour of afflic-tion [cries of 'Put him out' and 'order'], and assure them that, while we humbly bow to the will of [a voice, 'Three cheers for Kearney,'] Heaven, we lament our departed brother [roars of laughter], a fellow-citizen of enlightened mind, statesmanlike views [cries of 'Oh, shut up! THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1879. How much money would have been left with Raleigh merchants had five hundred tobacco-laden wagons come to this city on Saturday last? THE New York Tribune is so hard up for campaign timber that it has fallen back on the sufferings of the soldiers at Andersonville, and tells some piteous tales. Whoop it up for the soldier vote, Mr. Reid.

CHARLES FOSTER has the rare luck of running for Governor in an important campaign without having a slander told about him.-New York Tri-

That is so; Mr. Foster stayed at home and tended his grocery like a little man. By the way, wouldn't the Tribune give it to Ewing if it wasn't for the soldiers' votes!

It is a good thing for Raleigh when Wake farmers run to Durham to find a tobacco market, and help swell the number of wagons filling up that place.

THE Democrats have concentrated all their mud machines upon John Sherman, and are so troubled in trying to make some of the dirt stick that they have allowed Foster to go clean.—

In some people's eyes it is almost impossible to make anything stick, especially after Treasury soap has been applied.

THE break at the Durham ware houses Saturday contained no less than 250,000 lbs. of farmers' tobacco, and prices indeed ruled high.

As THE Greenback platform forbids assessments on candidates or office-holders the party will have to run its campaign by issuing greenbacks at the rate of $50 a head for each member of the organization.—New York Tribune. We are not certain but that the Republican campaign committee will have to do the same thing if Casanave takes it in his head to make a few more trips to Washington.

On Saturday last, according to the Tobacco Plant, there were FIVE HUN-DRED wagons in Durham, and was considered by far the largest break of tobacco ever seen in North Carolina in one day. On Saturday last there were some eighteen or twenty wood carts in Raleigh, bringing in some ten or twelve dollars' worth of trade.

THE New York Times says it will "need a ticket of unexceptional strength to secure a Republican majority in New York this year, be the Democratic divisions what they may and let the strength of the Greenback vote be greatly beyond reasonable anticipa-times in that village, and the merchants reap a harvest therefrom. In Raleigh tobacco sales do not create the smallest ripple of excitement.

When carpet-baggers got hold of the Southern States and issued bonds without limit, and sold them at forty cents on the dollar, and the State compromises at fifty cents, we would like to know what the bondholders lost? Verily at that time the era of good stealing existed, and the South was bled at every pore to enrich the most infamous set of scoundrels that ever flourished in this country.

THE only tobacco that we have seen brought in was that seized upon in Robeson county by the internal revenue collector. But this arrival adds nothing to Raleigh's interest, and besides the Government building does not make a suitable tobacco warehouse.

THE Tribune knows full well that since the war there has not been in any Southern State any repudiation of an honest debt. Mississippi seems to stick in Mr. Reid's throat; but he, as a Western man, knows that Minnesota is no

THE Baltimore Gazett: remarks: "It is noticeable that nearly all the men of gore who are anxious to smash up the Union and plunge the sections into another disastrous war are working on newspapers with patent outsides. A newspaper with a patent outside is so undignified that many of the great thoughts uttered by these people are lost. Somehow a small paper with a patent outside does not seem to mean more than one-half that it says."

IF our memory serves us aright there are quite a respectable number of townships in New York State that wish to repudiate the bonds issued in aid of the New York & Oswego Midland Railroad construction. What a pity these same townships are not South; they would furnish such handsome targets for the Tribune's spleen. And by the same token, as the Irishman would say, the farmers dwelling in those townships find it hard work to raise money to pay their taxes. And all this within ninety miles of the tall tower, and within the limits of the rich State of New York.

THE Tribune is bringing a storm of indignation clattering about its ears for its outrageous attempt to depreciate the credit of the South. A number of Northern papers view the libelous article in its just light. The Washington Post, in commenting on the subject, says: "The seal of one Southern State was brought to this city, and a bond factory put in operation at the Ebbitt House, which added an immense issue to the bonded debt of that afflicted State." And if South Carolina had not been wrested from the hands of carpetbaggers there is no knowing where the thing would have ended.

PRESIDENT HAYES, being asked if he still adhered to his celebrated order prohibiting Federal officials from using their positions to manipulate political conventions and influence nominations has replied that the order is still in full force and operation, and upon proof being submitted of its violation by any officer of the Government the person so offending will be dealt with accordingly. The President reiterates his former opinion that a public officer can best benefit his party by rendering faithful and efficient service in performing the duties of his office. Wouldn't it be well for Mr. Hayes to ask Mr. Sherman to give some account of his late late peculiar proceedings? It is well understood that he run the machine that nominated Mr. Foster to the exclusion of the Grant candidate.

WHOEVER is nominated at Saratoga must be elected. Let there be a full and fair interchange of opinion as to the policy of the party; let the merits of different candidates be freely and just ly considered; and then let all unite in heartily supporting the decision.—Albany Journal (Rep.).

Well, you have little Johnny Davenport for boss of elections, and if you can't do it with him you might as well give up the job forever. Johnny is good for that even he can't run a fancy chicken shop.

ESTABLISH BUSINESS.

The business men of Richmond and Norfolk made several efforts to gather trade from North Carolina the past summer, and seem to have met with fair success. Excursions were gotten up; the fare was placed at a low figure. and on arrival at those places they were met by the business men and entertained most sumptuously. Then they were escorted around the city and shown what business amounted to when handled in a business manner. Short excursions in the neighborhood formed a feature of the general plan, and when the excursionists returned they brought glowing remembrances of the manner in which they were entertained.

This, we will venture to say, was the most economical mode of advertising that could have been entered into. The Richmond and Norfolk people sounded their own trumpets, and sounded them loudly too. They had established business, and then invited customers to visit them and see what they were do-

There is no reason under the sun why Raleigh should not constitute itself a wholesale business place instead of standing in the position of a common gathering of groceries, retailing only city supplies. There are plenty of instances where inland places furnish wholesale supplies to villages a hundred miles distant in every direction. In Jamestown, Chautauqua county, N. Y., a place not over favorably situated, the merchants control the trade along the Erie road east for one hundred and fifty miles, and are able to allow fare to any person who buys a bill amounting to $25 and upward. They can wholesale to country merchants at a trifleabove New York rates, and as cheap as if the small merchants had purchased direct in the city.

Richmond and Norfolk are trying this plan. Each wants to be considered a wholesale depot, from which North Carolina may be supplied, and thus build up a large business and gather in fortunes from the commissions accruhouses in Henderson it creates lively | ing. Raleigh, by purguing the same plan, would reap all the benefits now secured by those two places.

> Now see what Atlanta proposes doing. We take the following from the Constitution:

Truly the lives of the merchants of upper North and South Carolina are cast in pleasant places. A short time ago the people of Norfolk tendered them a half-rate excursion, in which about 700 participated and a grand banquet equally well attended. A short time afterward Richmond organized a series of half-rate excursions and invited the same merchants. And now comes Atlanta, which never takes two bites at a cherry, and offers them a free excursion, with no half-rate foolishness about it. The merchants of Atlanta will be glad to see their friends from up the road, and while they do not promise them any noisy jubilee they will show them some extra heavy stocks of goods and gladden their hearts with some extra low prices.

Will our people ever wake up to their own interests?

He will be kept Busy.

Charleston News and Courier. Since Secretary Sherman has been in Ohio, participating in the political can-vass in that State, he has been kept quite busy in answering charges and adverse criticisms. His reply to the strictures of the New York Times in relation to the extension of the time for the payment of the subscriptions to the four per cent. loan, while declaring in Mair e that the loan was closed, did not meet with implicit acceptance in the eastern cities, and now he is explaining away the charges brought against him by other Republicans of appointing ex-Confederates to office. Of the persons whose names were given as holding such appointments some, he declared, were appointed by General Grant, and others he justified because they were now acting with the Republican party. With respect to his discharge of Union soldiers, he said that none were dismissed except for cause; and to a further charge that his own relatives held places under the government, he replied that he had not himself appointed any one of them since he took office. The fact that Secretary Sherman has been forced so early in his candidature for the Presidency to meet the criticism and accusations of members of his own party would seem to indicate that he has a hard ro: d to travel before he attains the object of his ambition, if he succeed in getting it at all.

A Warning to the Stalwarts.

New York Herald. The constitution nowhere gives a presidential candidate the authority to take possession of the office if he shall imagine himself to have been elected. Not even the president in possession has any other duty to perform than to hand over the office at the appointed time to his successor, declared by Congress. It will not do for the Republican leaders to be talking this kind of nonsense. If they mean what they are saying then the only safe thing for the people to do next year is to sweep them from power by an overwhelming vote, because evidently their too long possession of power has put dangerous and unconstitutional ideas in their heads. If they only talking for bunkum then they had better take care lest the voters, jealous of liberty and peace, and justly resenting such hints of usurpation, take them to be earnest and visit upon them the popular wrath. When the party in power begins to talk about needing a general, so that he may put himself in office and that he may "keep down" anybody, that means that they are considering unconstitutional and extra constitutional methods, which no free people will or ought to tolerate.

Mr. Sherman's Kindness,

Washington Post. The only reason assigned by Mr. Sherman for permitting two banks in New York city to amass fortunes for the lucky managers, by using many millions of public money without ing interest, is that those banks took $161,000,000 of the four per cent. bonds. That was a vast sum to be sure, but how did that subscription entitle them to favors not specified in the contracts, and altogether unprecedented, except in so far as Mr. Sherman had made precedents by previous favors of the same kind? Those bankers took the bonds, not from patriotic motives, but to make money. As we have heretofore shown there was a handsome commission allowed them. In addition to this profit, the subscribing banks intended to clear a large amount by selling the four per cents. to holders of called bonds before July 21st. In pursuance of this policy, the syndicate, as soon as they got hold of all available four per cents., ran them up to a pre-mium of two and one-half cents on the dollar. The holders of called bonds to a large amount, demurred to this. They said they would hold their securities, even after they had ceased to draw interest, rather than submit to the payment of such a premium to Mr. Sher-man's New York favorites. This is the reason, and the only reason why the subscribing banks were unable to meet their subscriptions when they became due. Their over-greed and avarice baulked their purposes. Had they been willing to sell the four per cents. at a fair rate, they could have exchanged them all for called bonds or currency. This statement of facts furnishes no sort of justification, excuse or pallia-tion for the act of Mr. Sherman in extending the time of payment beyond

NATICK, MASS., Jan. 1, 1874.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir, We have good reason for regarding your Vegetine a medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age. For the last two years he has suffered from necrosis of his leg caused by scroftlung affection, and his leg, caused by scrofulous affection, and was so far reducee that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying; two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him, as he had not vigor enough to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him Vegetine, and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed his studies, thrown away his rutches and cane, and walks about cheer-fully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence—that—in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of Vegetine, but lately uses but little, as he declares that he is too well to be taking medi-

-The reporter was yesterday informed that a party came to Raleigh on his way to Baltimore to purchase goods: that some of the more enterprising business men here buttonholed him and soon convinced him that it was to his interest to purchase his goods here. He expended eight or nine hundred dollars and started for home, highly pleased with his purchases. That is the way to do it. Keep the ball rolling; the NEWS is with you.

Justice's Court.

Plummer Breham and Doe Harris. both colored, were before Justice Barbee yesterday, charged with an affray.

At half past five yesterday morning Mr. B. P. Williamson, one of our prominent business men, was united in marriage to Miss Ella S. Mial. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father, in Mark's Creek township; the happy pair arriving in this city at eight o'clock, when they boarded the R. & G. train for an ex tended trip North.

Raleigh's Business and Prespects.

A gentleman of this city, a trained New York business man and merchant now doing business here, in a conversation with the reporter yesterday, spoke feelingly of Raleigh business; what it is and and to what it might attain. He says a thorough business man coming to Raleigh, is like a speckeled bird going into the woods-all the others peck at him. He spoke of property holders not encouraging immigra-tion, but on the contrary holding their property in a useless state, at such high figures that parties left them and went elsewhere to make their purcases, which means-improvements. a great error and the sooner the people of Raleigh, who own property here. are convinced of their great in this particular, the better for all con-

As an illustration, he informed the reporter that the machinery of the largest cotton factory now in operation in this State, was held over here several days with a view to having the factory erected here, because labor was cheap and the surroundings were eminently fitted for the purpose, but the people let that chance slip through their fingers, as they have frequently done before, and the factory is to-day "booming" in another section of the State.

Is this thing to continue? Something has got to be done, a blind man can see that, and that right speedily. Norfolk, Richmond, Wilmington and a number of other places are to-day filling orders from sections of the State whose trade Raleigh ought now to en-

The gentleman spoken of is thoroughly identified with Raleigh's in terest; what is for her good is for his good, and these observations were made "more in sorrow than in anger." The NEWS again calls upon the citizens to make some effort to try and turn trade in this direction. Every dollar expended in Raleigh is to your interest, even though it is not expended in your particular line of business, and if the News can tend to bring one of the citizens of this place to a full appreciation of the situation, its object will have been accomplished.

The Coming State Fair. The North Carolina Agricultural Society hold the nineteenth annual Fair on October 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th next. Great pains have been taken by the executive committee, the president and secretary, to secure representation from all sections of the State. The honors of the Society have been carefully distributed through every Congressional listrict in North Carolina, and those who have supposed that any section was left out are in error. No institution is more truly a State affair—except that Raleigh bears rather more of the pecuniary burden, for her generous men of enterprise have this year given two thousand dollars to aid.

The whole premium list embraces four thousand five hundred dollars, ready for payment when won. Let us witness a generous rivalry for premiums from every section. Many interesting items we hear of which we shall glean for our readers. The Secretary, Captain C. B Denson, is ready to receive entries now, will forward premium lists, and answer all inquiries with pleasure. We are glad ne outlook is so promising. He is receiving a large number of valuable donations, to be sold at the great sale at the Fair Grounds Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Fair week.

Touching Letter from Beaufort. MAYOR'S OFFICE, BEAUFORT, N. C., September 1, 1879.

Miss E, M., Raleigh, N. C.: Your remittance of $10 came into my hands this morning. May the benedic tions of Heaven rest upon you for all time to come An aged lady had just called upon me for relief. She told me that her husband, aged about eighty years, was at home (they live in town) helpless, and that they had been without food for two days. She also has a maiden sister about eighty-five, who is pretty much in the same condition. As you have given me discretionary power, I propose to use the larger portion of what you sent me to keep these aged and helpless ones from ending their long ives by starvation.

I shall, at the proper time, publish a full list of all contributions received, and the persons or sources from whence received This is the first answer I have written to any contributor, for I have been so occupied since the storm, in trying to bring the condition of both town and county before the public, that I have accident. The company also issues the had time for little else. Mine is a thankless office. It has no salary, and my time is given to others without fee or reward. May God bless you.

Very respectfully, L. W. MARTIN, Mayor.

Warning to Delinquents. The following notice has been sent to persons having neglected to take out censes according to law: RALEIGH, N. C., September 1st. DEAR SIR:-You are indicted for failing to take out license. Call on Regster White at once and take out the license then pay Clerk Upchurch the cost and the indictment will save the ssuing of a capias and your giving bond for January Term, 1880. If the case goes over, the cost at the next erm will be double what is now.

Refuses to Pay.

The Ætna Life Insurance Company. ecently represented in our community by W. H. Crow, Esq., of Raleigh, has otified the administrator and the children of the late Colonel R. L. Patterson, of Salem, that they will not pay the policies upon his life. Thes policies amounted to twenty thousand dollars, and were written in the year 1866. Colonel Patterson paid several thousand dollars upon them, and for this Company to refuse to pay these policies is simply outrageous, and is nly equaled by the general reputation which foreign life insurance companies have established in our community. Many of our citizens have recently taken policies with this company, and the course indicated in the case of Col-onel Patterson is what their families may expect in case of their death. In same connection we will state that the North Carolina State Life Insurance Company which carried a policy of one thousand dollars upon Colonel Patterson's life, promptly notified the widow of Colonel Patterson, through their agent, James A. Gray, that they will pay the full amount upon maturity. Mark the contrast of patronizing home institutions.

A Card to the Public. We ask a careful reading and a thoughtful consideration of what fol-It is now over twelve years since a new cure for chronic diseases was discovered, known as "Compound The results which have Oxygen." followed its use up to this time have been so remarkable that it is beginning o attract the widest attention. Many intelligent physicians in various parts of the country have, after a careful in vestigation of its scientific and patho logical claims, used it in cases where all other known remedies had failed and with a success alike surprising to themselves and their patients. In Consumption, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchit is, Headache, Dyspepsia, and the wide range of Neuralgic disorders from which so many suffer life-long tortures, it has rarely failed to give relief, and in many cases to make permanent cures. It is not a drug, but a new combination of the two elements which make up our common air, giving oxygen in excess. It is taken by inhalation, and cures by natural and orderly processes -first, by eliminating the excess of carbon which has accumulated in the system; and secondly, by a revitalization of all the great nervous centers. In order to give the public an opportunity to learn all about this new treatment, we have a prepared a carefully written Treatise, in which is presented a history of the discovery of "Compound Oxygen," a statement of its Scientific Basis and Mode of Action, and large details of the results which have followed the administration. This is sent free by mail to any one who may desire to receive it. Addres Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1112 Girard Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879. The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, Esq., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a scription of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even tem porary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully, WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879.—WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi—Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case" which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me, The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she continued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard t one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WAD-DILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News.
